SYSTEMS RESEARCH
The Official Journal of the International Federation for Systems Research

Editor-in-Chief: JOHN N WARFIELD, Institute for Advanced Study in the Integrative Sciences, George Mason University, Thompson Hall, 4400 University Drive, Fairfax, VA 22030, USA

The International Federation for Systems Research stimulates inquiry and research into systems and their interactions through its journal Systems Research, a multidisciplinary focus for the exchange of new ideas and knowledge relating to the development, assessment and management of systems programs and activities.

The journal concentrates on the problems of change in societies or organizations, for example, the implementation of rules and regulations to increase the quality of life and work and the introduction of new, emancipatory scientific ideas in daily life. Readers include academics and professionals intent on overcoming discrepancies in human constructions and organizations.

Studies in Second Language Acquisition

EDITOR
Albert Valdman, University of Indiana

Studies in Second Language Acquisition deals with the acquisition of a second language whether by formal learning or by assimilation in countries where different cultures live and communicate side by side. It also investigates the many implications of such language contact. While preference is given to theoretically-orientated papers and reports of empirical research, discussions of pedagogical issues are considered if they refer to major theoretical issues in the field. Each part contains articles, research notes and review articles.

Recent Articles

The Effects of Time-Compressed Speech on Native and EFL Listening Comprehension, Linda Conrad

Attainment of Syntactic and Morphological Accuracy by Advanced Language Learners, Kathleen Bardovi-Harlig & Theodora Bofman

The Journal of Educational Television, the official journal of the Educational Television Association, was first published in 1975. It has proved to be a successful international forum for discussion and reports on developments in the increasingly important and rapidly expanding field of the use of television and related media in teaching, learning and training.

The journal welcomes contributions in the form of academic articles, technical and research reports, reviews, comments and news from those involved in and using educational television and the related communication media throughout the world.

The journal is published three times a year, in March, July and October. These three annual issues constitute one volume. Volume 15–1989. ISSN 0260-7417.

Subscription rates (post free): one year (one volume) £60.00 (UK), US$188.00 (Rest of the World). Individuals receiving the journal at a private address may subscribe at a 50% discount—i.e. £30.00 (UK), US$94.00 (Rest of the World). TANDBERG College
Firsts

Tandberg's first U.S. language laboratory customer was Harvard. After 20 durable years, the system was replaced by another Tandberg — the IS-8.

With their 1978 technology, Tandberg was able to customize the lab to fit the Harvard program allowing students an access to our library materials for self-paced study. B ike to think the features Tandberg built into our IS-8 were incorporated into the IS-10 for everybody."

Barry Megquier
Coordinator
Modern Language Center
Harvard University

Forty years ago, LSU pioneered language laboratories in the U.S. Today, a 300% increase in students using the system attests to another LSU first — the first to install the Tandberg IS-10 Language Learning Laboratory.

"Teachers no longer shy away from mandatory lab assignments. They know the IS-10 is reliable and easy to use. Tandberg has revolutionized the lab. Our old dial-access system, with demand start, limited students to something like a one-way, non-stop bus ride. The Tandberg IS-10 is like renting a car for students to stop and go and explore at will. Perfect for today's interactive learning philosophy."

Walter V. Tuman
Director
Foreign Language Lab
